INFORMED CONSENT FOR COUNSELING SERVICES

Welcome to the Counseling Institute of Atlanta, Inc., for counseling services. Thank you for trusting us to assist you with your concerns. It is our desire to help you in this moment of your life. We are honored that you have chosen us as your therapist. We will do everything we can to help you move forward and solve your problems.

This document is designed to inform you about what you can expect from your therapist, policies regarding confidentiality and emergencies, and several other details regarding your treatment here at the Counseling Institute of Atlanta. Although providing this document is part of an ethical obligation to our profession, more importantly, it is part of our commitment to you to keep you fully informed of every part of your therapeutic experience. Please know that your relationship with your therapist or group leader is a collaborative one, and we welcome any questions, comments, or suggestions regarding your course of therapy at any time.

Background Information, Theoretical Views, & Client Participation

Information regarding your therapist's educational background and experience may be found on our website under his or her name. Please feel free to view that information at www.counselinginstituteofatlanta.com.

It is our belief that as people become more aware accepting of themselves, they are more capable of finding a sense of peace and contentment in their lives. However, self-awareness and self-acceptance are goals that may take a long time to achieve. Some clients need only a few sessions to achieve these goals, whereas others may require months of therapy. As a client, you are in complete control, and you may end your relationship with your therapist at any point.

In order for therapy to be most successful, it is important for you to take an active role. This means working on the things you and your therapist talk about both during and between sessions. This also means avoiding any mind-altering substances like alcohol or non-prescription drugs for at least eight hours prior to your therapy sessions. Generally, the more of yourself you are willing to invest, the greater the return.

Furthermore, it is our policy to only see clients who we believe have the capacity to resolve their own problems with our assistance. It is our intention to empower you in your growth process to the degree that you are capable of facing life's challenges in the future without your therapist. We also don't believe in creating dependency or prolonging therapy if the therapeutic intervention does not seem to be helping. If this is the case, your therapist will direct you to other resources that will be of assistance to you. Your personal development is our number one priority. We encourage you to let us know if you feel that transferring to another facility or another therapist is necessary at any time. Our goal is to facilitate healing and growth, and we are very committed to helping you in whatever way seems to produce maximum benefit.

TERMINATION OF THERAPY: Each stage of therapy has important ramifications for the client's motivation, growth and self-esteem. Termination, although an ending of therapy, is a part of the development of the therapeutic relationship. A client who misses more than two sessions without notifying the therapist should be seen as initiating a premature termination. The staff from the Counseling Institute of Atlanta will try to contact you, but your case will be terminated/closed if we do not hear back from you for one month. If you are feeling better or planning not to return to therapy, it is important that you come in for a final session, so that we can discuss the reasons leading to the decision, the course of therapy and any relevant referrals. A case is considered terminated when there is no longer any regular sustained contact following a specified treatment plan. However, reopening your chart and resuming treatment is always an option.

SERVICE SATISFACTION/ RESEARCH: I understand that the Counseling Institute of Atlanta, Inc may occasionally collaborate with colleges and universities to provide training to masters and doctoral level students by serving as a practicum/internship site. All interns are supervised by senior level staff (Licensed Professional Counselor, Licensed Clinical Social Worker, Psychiatrist, or Licensed Psychologist). If you prefer not to work with a graduate trainee, please speak with your therapist or the receptionist. The Counseling Institute of Atlanta, Inc may also at times collect information about your experiences in treatment to inform and potentially improve our ability to deliver high quality services. As part of this effort we may ask clients to complete a brief evaluation, survey, or questionnaire on a voluntary and anonymous basis. If you have any questions, please speak with your therapist or the receptionist.

Confidentiality & Records

Your communications with your therapist will become part of a clinical record of treatment, which is referred to as Protected Health Information (PHI). Your PHI will be kept in a file stored in a locked cabinet in our locked office and/or will be stored electronically with a mental health and therapy notes software, a secure storage company who has signed a HIPAA Business Associate Agreement (BAA). The BAA ensures that they will maintain the confidentiality of your PHI in a HIPAA compatible secure format using point-to-point, Federally approved encryption.

Your therapist will always keep everything you say to him or her completely confidential, with the following exceptions: (1) you direct your therapist to tell someone else and you sign a "Release of Information" form; (2) your therapist determines that you are a danger to yourself or to others, we may be required to take protective action, which may include notifying the potential victim, notifying the police, or seeking appropriate hospitalization.; (3) you report information about the abuse of a child, an elderly person, or a disabled individual who may require protection; (4) to obtain appropriate professional consultations; (5) to obtain payment for services, in which instance the disclosure is limited to the minimum that is necessary to achieve the purpose or (6) your therapist is ordered by a judge to disclose information. In the latter case, your therapist's license does provide him or her with the ability to uphold what is legally termed "privileged communication." Privileged communication is your right as a client to have a confidential relationship with a counselor. This state has a very good track record in respecting this legal right. If for some unusual reason a judge were to order the disclosure of your private information, this order can be appealed. We cannot guarantee that the appeal will be sustained, but we will do everything in our power to keep what you say confidential. As mentioned before, to release information about your therapy, we need to have written releases from you. In general, the law protects the confidentiality of all communications between clients and counselors. We only release information about our work with your written releases. Clients often give me releases to talk to their individual therapists, and/or previous therapists. This helps us to coordinate your therapy so that it will be most helpful to you.

Occasionally, we find it helpful to consult with other professionals about a situation in therapy. In these consultations, we avoid revealing the identity of my clients. We will usually inform you of these consultations.

Please note that in couple's counseling, your therapist does not agree to keep secrets. Information revealed in any context may be discussed with either partner.

Professional Relationship

Your relationship with your therapist has to be different from most relationships. It may differ in how long it lasts, the objectives, or the topics discussed. It must also be limited to only the relationship of therapist and client. If you and your therapist were to interact in any other ways, you would then have a "dual relationship," which could prove to be harmful to you in the long run and is, therefore, unethical in the mental health profession. Dual relationships can set up conflicts between the therapist's interests and the client's interests, and then the client's (your) interests might not be put first. In order to offer all of our clients the best care, your therapist's judgment needs to be unselfish and purely focused on your needs. This is why your relationship with your therapist must remain professional in nature.

Additionally, there are important differences between therapy and friendship. Friends may see your position only from their personal viewpoints and experiences. Friends may want to find quick and easy solutions to your problems so that they can feel helpful. These short-term solutions may not be in your long-term best interest. Friends do not usually follow up on their advice to see whether it was useful. They may need to have you do what they advise. A therapist offers you choices and helps you choose what is best for you. A therapist helps you learn how to solve problems better and make better decisions. A therapist's responses to your situation are based on tested theories and methods of change.

You should also know that therapists are required to keep the identity of their clients confidential. As much as your therapist would like to, for your confidentiality he or she will not address you in public unless you speak to him or her first. Your therapist also must decline any invitation to attend gatherings with your family or friends. Lastly, when your therapy is completed, your therapist will not be able to be a friend to you like your other friends. In sum, it is the duty of your therapist to always maintain a professional role. Please note that these guidelines are not meant to be discourteous in any way, they are strictly for your long-term protection.

Statement Regarding Ethics, Client Welfare & Safety

The Counseling Institute of Atlanta assures you that our services will be rendered in a professional manner consistent with the ethical standards of the American Psychological Association and/or the American Counseling Association and/or the National Association of Social Workers and/or the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy. If at any time you feel that your therapist is not performing in an ethical or professional manner, we ask that you please let him or her know immediately. If the two of you are unable to resolve your concern, please contact our office manager at 404-630-1361.

The Counseling Institute of Atlanta's services are limited to counseling services including assessment, consultation, therapy, and intervention. Assessment services may include the use of questionnaires or tests which may be used to inform intervention services such as counseling and psychotherapy or to provide recommendations. Due to the very nature of psychotherapy, as much as we would like to guarantee specific results regarding your therapeutic goals, we are unable to do so. However, your therapist, with your participation, will work to achieve the best possible results for you. Please also be aware that changes made in therapy may affect other people in your life. For example, an increase in your assertiveness may not always be welcomed by others. It is our intention to help you manage changes in your interpersonal relationships as they arise, but it is important for you to be aware of this possibility nonetheless.

Additionally, at times people find that they feel somewhat worse when they first start therapy before they begin to feel better. This may occur as you begin discussing certain sensitive areas of your life. However, a topic usually isn't sensitive unless it needs attention. Therefore, discovering the discomfort is actually a success. Once you and your therapist are able to target your specific treatment needs and the particular modalities that work the best for you, help is generally on the way.

Psychotherapy is not easily described in general statements. It varies depending on the personalities of the therapist and client, and the particular problems you are experiencing. There are many different methods we may use to deal with the problems that you hope to address. Psychotherapy calls for an active effort on your part. Your active participation and commitment are important during this process. Some people may need a few sessions and others may need more. Come to our office on time according to your scheduled appointment. If for any reason, you are not able to attend, please let us know in advance so we can use that time with another client.

Psychotherapy can have benefits and risks. Since therapy often involves discussing unpleasant aspects of your life, you may experience uncomfortable feelings. On the other hand, psychotherapy has also been shown to have many benefits. Therapy often leads to better relationships, solutions to specific problems, and significant reductions in feelings of distress, but there are no guarantees of what you will experience.

The potential benefits of undergoing counseling services may include obtaining professional opinion and an increased understanding of yourself. The potential risks may include limited predictive validity of mental health assessment procedures, possible disagreement with the opinions offered, and possible emotional distress concerning the client's situation.

Technology Statement

In our ever-changing technological society, there are several ways we could potentially communicate and/or follow each other electronically. It is of utmost importance to us that we maintain your confidentiality, respect your boundaries, and ascertain that your relationship with your therapist remains therapeutic and professional. Therefore, we've developed the following policies:

Cell phones: It is important for you to know that cell phones may not be completely secure or confidential. However, we realize that most people have and utilize a cell phone. Your therapist may also use a cell phone to contact you. If this is a problem, please feel free to discuss this with your therapist.

Text Messaging and Email: Both text messaging and emailing are not secure means of communication and may compromise your confidentiality. We realize that many people prefer to text and/or email because it is a quick way to convey information. However, please know that it is our policy to utilize these means of communication strictly for appointment confirmations (nothing that could be inferred as therapy). Please do not bring up any therapeutic content via text or email to prevent compromising your confidentiality. If you do, please know that your therapist will not respond. You also need to know that we are required to keep a summary or a copy of all emails and texts as part of your clinical record that address anything related to therapy.

Facebook or Social Media It is our policy not to accept requests from any current or former clients on social networking sites such as Facebook, LinkedIn, Instagram, etc. because it may compromise your confidentiality. The Counseling Institute of Atlanta has a business Facebook page and LinkedIn. You are welcome to follow us on any of these pages. However, please do so only if you are comfortable with the general public being aware of the fact that your name is attached to The Counseling Institute of Atlanta. Please refrain from making contact with us using social media messaging systems such as Facebook Messenger. These methods have insufficient security, and we do not watch them closely. We would not want to miss an important message from you.

Google, Bing, etc.: It is our policy not to search for our clients on Google or any other search engine. We respect your privacy and make it a policy to allow you to share information about yourself to your therapist as you feel appropriate. If there is content on the Internet that you would like to share with your therapist for therapeutic reasons, please print this material and bring it to your session.

Faxing Medical Records: If you authorize us (in writing) via a "Release of Information" form to send your medical records or any form of protected health information to another entity for any reason, we may need to fax that information to the authorized entity. It is our responsibility to let you know that fax machines may not be a secure form of transmitting information. Additionally, information that has been faxed may also remain in the hard drive of our fax machine. However, our fax machine is kept behind two locks in our office. And, when our fax machine needs to be replaced, we will destroy the hard drive in a manner that makes future access to information on that device inaccessible.

Recommendations to Websites or Applications (Apps): During the course of treatment, your therapist may recommend that you visit certain websites for pertinent information or self-help. She or he may also recommend certain apps that could be of assistance to you and enhance your treatment. Please be aware that websites and apps may have tracking devices that allow automated software or other entities to know that you've visited these sites or applications. They may even utilize your information to attempt to sell you other products. Additionally, anyone who has access to the device you used to visit these sites and/or apps, may be able to see that you have been to these sites by viewing the history on your device. Therefore, it is your responsibility to decide and communicate to your therapist if you would like this information as adjunct to your treatment or if you prefer that your therapist does not make these recommendations.

In summary, technology is constantly changing, and there are implications to all of the above that we may not realize at this time. Please feel free to ask questions, and know that we are open to any feelings or thoughts you have about these and other modalities of communication.

In Case of an Emergency

The Counseling Institute of Atlanta is considered to be an outpatient facility, and we are set up to accommodate individuals who are reasonably safe and resourceful. We do not carry beepers nor are we available at all times. If at any time this does not feel like sufficient support, please inform your therapist, and he or she can discuss additional resources or transfer your case to a therapist or clinic with 24-hour availability. Generally, your therapist will return phone calls within 24-48 hours. If you have a mental health emergency, we encourage you not to wait for a call back, but to do one or more of the following:

- Call Behavioral Health Link/GCAL: 800-715-4225
- Call Ridgeview Institute at 770.434.4567
- Call Peachford Hospital at 770.454.5589
- Call Lifeline at (800) 273-8255 (National Crisis Line)
- Call 911
- Go to the emergency room of your choice

CANCELLATION AND MISSED APPOINTMENT POLICIES

Structure and Cost of Sessions

Your therapist agrees to provide individual psychotherapy for the fee of $100 to $150 per 50-minute session; and $120 to $200 per family or couples therapy of 50 minutes unless otherwise negotiated by you or your insurance carrier. $150 is the cost for counseling related to a legal case or workers compensation case.

Doing psychotherapy by telephone is not ideal, and needing to talk to your therapist between sessions may indicate that you need extra support. If this is the case, you and your therapist will need to explore adding sessions or developing other resources you have available to help you. Telephone calls that exceed 10 minutes in duration will be billed at $50 for up to 30 minutes. The fee for each session will be due at the beginning of the session. Cash, Visa, MasterCard, Discover, or American Express are acceptable for payment, and we will provide you with a receipt of payment. The receipt of payment may also be used as a statement for insurance if applicable to you. We do not take personal checks.

In case you want us to mail you or your attorney a report, there will be a $15 fee for mailing. We do not take insurance.

Insurance companies have many rules and requirements specific to certain plans. Unless otherwise negotiated, it is your responsibility to find out your insurance company's policies and to file for insurance reimbursement. We will be glad to provide you with a statement for your insurance company and to assist you with any questions you may have in this area.

Cancellation Policy

In the event that you are unable to keep an appointment, you must notify your therapist at least 48 hours in advance. If such advance notice is not received, you will be financially responsible for the session you missed. If you fail to cancel a scheduled appointment, we cannot use this time for another client and you will be billed a full session fee for your missed appointment.

Please note that insurance companies do not reimburse for missed sessions. You will have to pay that session at the beginning of your next appointment or call us to provide your card information. We will try to contact you two days in advance to remind your appointment; however, it is your responsibility to keep your appointments or call us to reschedule or cancel your appointment with 48 hours in advanced. In other words, if we do not call you and you do not cancel or reschedule on time, you are still responsible for paying the missed session.

Thank you for understanding and for your cooperation. The signature below acknowledges that I understand and accept the terms and conditions of this policy.
